MANAGEMENT COMMENT

Spreads continued to tighten at the beginning of February to 73bp (from 87bp at the beginning of the year) and finally closed the month at 80bp (-3bp compared to the end of January). The German 10 year rate continued to rise and ended the month at 2.65%.

After the strong rally of January, we turn the page on February on a less positive note. Premiums proved resilient but the rise in rates wiped out almost all the gains of the first month of the year (total return of the EROO index -1.44% in February vs +2% in January). The resilience of the economy, labour market figures and the level of inflation are pushing the ECB to maintain a hawkish stance. The ECB terminal rate is raised by most analysts to around 4% from 3.25% previously. Primary market activity has slowed down compared to January but remains within the historical average for the period. New issue premiums are less generous, reflecting continued strong demand.

We participated in the launches of BIL's new Tier 2 issue and Julius Baer's new AT1. We initiated a position in a slope product. The fund continues to benefit from its under-exposure to rising interest rates.
